A group of developers has bought a 3.3-square-mile swath of Sullivan County with fully approved plans for a 2,600-home community that have sat dormant since the project began with a jubilant ribbon-cutting in 2014 and soon fizzled.

It already smells like sewage. In Sullivan from putting up the first round of condos for the hissidics and accident everyday. Out of control.

Thanks Gov Como. We all know this group has you in their back pocket. Como lets them do whatever they want as long as he gets all their votes. What a train wreck. 🇺🇸 2

How is there able to afford everything. They bought our Catholic schools in Rockland they bought spring valley market place .. they took over stop and shop in Pomona ... There's building a new city in kj .. while the rest of us can barely afford $5 a gallon milk price ? And you wonder why Germans did what they say they did ... smh 🤔🤔 4

Gee, great, let us all pay for this community's expenses. Developers and largest subdivision in NY is *exactly* what the Hudson Valley and Catskills needs right now, right? ..... 🍷 1

 That's a great idea. Devote Sullivan county to all religious groups and leave the rest of NY to pay the taxes. 🗣️👍 12

 Ethan DiMaria Let's be clear here, we are talking about people who have great wealth and somehow always manage not to pay taxes - I am including ANY member of the wealthy in this category. NY taxes are sky high already, many of us have lost our jobs and are struggling to feed our families and if we do not pay taxes, we pay a heavy price. If you expect people struggling to feed their families AND shoulder a gated community's tax burden as well, you can hardly be surprised there is anger. And many of us - like me - have marched for justice all our lives, including this past year. But equality means you pay your fair share of taxes too. And massive tax exemptions come from great wealth and connections - sorry, that is just not popular any more than racism is these days. Fair is fair 🗣️👍 3

 Well stated argument. You should blame the system and not isolate those who legally take advantage of any opportunities afforded by the government.

Ethan DiMaria First: I am not a blamer, and 'legally taking advantage' is scummy to me, no matter how wealthy. You don't seem to get how serious this is: I was a disability counselor all my life and Section 8 housing is meant for the disabled, vulnerable and unable to work - but instead, THEY get to live in shelters or on the streets when all Section 8 housing is scarfed up by "those who legally take advantage of opportunities." My own severely disabled sister was once among them, which is why I am so passionate about this and why I fought this kind of grifting in court for so many years. I have zero sympathy for ANY grifter group, uber-rich especially, and am not 'isolating' anybody. Yet another Section 8 home just closed in Narrowsburg, leaving those vulnerable people to fend for themselves. It is virtually impossible to find Section 8 housing for the disabled in Sullivan County as it is - and if this crowd scarfs it all up, leaving the vulnerable to suffer on the streets of Liberty and Monticello in the freezing winters - you bet I'm going to help fight them in court in any way I can!!! 🗣️👍 3

Fran Galloway I knew exactly what you meant, and seniors on fixed incomes still have to come up with town and school taxes. Some of that money comes out of the medications and food budget. This is a major NYS problem that is long unaddressed - maybe it is time to demand some reforms.

Donna Aquino Yes it is. And many seniors have to choose between paying taxes and food. The assessor said taxes would be lower for everyone if they just got rid of tax exemptions to all groups. 🗣️👍 1

 Fran Galloway I know the Governor's office is focusing solely on the Covid crisis right now - and rightly so - but this long standing problem has to be addressed. My guess is the reason people are so angry about inequity now, as we see from the comments, is because so many of us have lost jobs and are struggling just for food, while an article about a wealthy gated big community with fancy amenities, who pay no taxes but are supported by the struggling families' taxes - guaranteed to make those struggling families angry. This community can well afford to pay its fair share. Their race/gender/ethnicity/faith/anything has nothing to do with it - it is about paying your fair share of the tax burden, period 🗣️👍 1

Donna Aquino Yes. Most people are 2 paychecks away from homelessness. I used to work as a caseworker for Orange County and helped to establish a runaway homeless shelter for youth so I do understand. 🗣️👍 2
